Units Operating On Australian Soil Hard-Striking

MORE JAPS HIT

Transports Damaged At Solomons

By LEE VAN ATTA
UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, May 12—While United Nations forces still pursued harried Japanese naval forces and bombed two enemy transports in the Solomon Islands, Army Minister Francis Forde declared today that the fighting services of both America and Australia now form the greatest striking force ever assembled in the Pacific.

He said well trained and thoroughly equipped American troops now based on the island continent are ready for any eventualities.

The new action against Japanese shipping brought to 23 the number of enemy ships sunk or damaged in the last week.

Forde disclosed that Australia's defenses had undergone a revolutionary change during the last few months.

In discussions with Gen. Sir Thomas Blamey, commander of United Nations land forces, and other military leaders, Forde made a survey of Australia's equipment and present war status.

He expressed pleasure over the great advances made and the substantial increase in army personnel.

Equipment Provided

New equipment is rolling off Australian production lines at a steadily increasing rate, he revealed, providing more and more rifles, anti-tank guns, anti-aircraft guns and large supplies of ammunition.

Air Minister Arthur Drakeford at the same time issued a review of the growing United Nations air strength.

GERMANS CLAIM THREE BRITISH DESTROYERS HIT

LONDON, May 12—The admiralty today announced the loss of three British destroyers in the eastern Mediterranean.

BERLIN, May 12—(By Official German Wireless)—Three British destroyers have been sunk in Mediterranean waters south of the island of Crete by Luftwaffe bombers, DNB news agency claimed today.

(Editor's Note: The DNB claim was not confirmed by any reliable source.)

(A Rome communique also listed the sinking of the three destroyers and said the action occurred north of Sollum, Egypt.)

RAY MILLER IN DENIAL HE WILL ENTER RACE

CLEVELAND, May 12—A denial came today from Ray T. Miller, Cuyahoga county Democratic chairman, that he would seek the Democratic nomination for governor.

Miller said he would attend a meeting of county chairmen in Columbus tonight. It was reported that the meeting would agree on a candidate for governor, although Miller said he understood it was "informal and unofficial."

Miller said that he not only did not intend running for governor but he would not be a candidate for the Democratic state chairmanship.

Only Three!

English Village Mourns As Promised Quints Reduced By Two

ABINGDON, England, May 12—Mrs. Emily Woodley disappointed the populace of Berkshire today when she gave birth to triplets instead of the quintuplets which had been anticipated.

The three babies are all boys. Disclosure that the expected birth of quintuplets had not come to pass went especially hard on the residents of Culham, home village of the Woodleys, who had hoped their hamlet might become as famous as Callender, Ontario, where the Dionne quintuplets were born.

The baby boys arrived on the birthday of their brother John who was born May 12, 1937, the day on which the coronation of King George VI took place.

The mother and her three children were said to be doing well. The prospective father had been given a special leave from the army to be nearby when his wife was admitted to the hospital in Abingdon. At least his worries about where to find five perambulators in a country where baby carriages have become almost a rarity have been reduced somewhat.

A special cot had been prepared at the Warren hospital to accommodate five new-born children.

Dr. J. H. Fisher, Mrs. Woodley's physician, had studied Dr. Alan Roy Daffoe's history of the Dionne quintuplets to be fully prepared to deliver five babies.

SALVAGE CONFAB TO BE STAGED IN CHILLICOTHE

Salvage committeemen and city and lodge officials from Circleville and Pickaway county Tuesday were urged to attend a district "Salvage for Victory" meeting to be held at 8 o'clock tonight in the council chamber of Chillicothe city hall.

Members of the Pickaway county salvage committee are Dan McClain, city and county chairman; C. E. Mehaffey, Ashville; William H. Skinner, New Holland; Arthur Deal, South Bloomfield, and the Rev. Robert S. Meyer, Williamsport.

Ben M. Segal, chairman of the Chillicothe salvage committee, will preside at the meeting. Robert O. Weible, executive secretary of the state salvage committee of the Ohio Council of Defense; L. D. Huestis, general manager of the Portsmouth works of the Wheeling Steel corporation, and Arthur A. Hoopingarner, vice-chairman of the state salvage committee, will attend the meeting, the first held in District Nine, comprising 13 counties.

The counties are Franklin, Pickaway, Fayette, Ross, Hocking, Highland, Pike, Jackson, Brown, Adams, Scioto and Lawrence.

Mr. Weible said that all phases of the Salvage for Victory campaign, particularly scrap metal and rubber, will be discussed.

PRINTER SELLS BLOOD TO BUY LIQUOR, WIFE CLAIMS

CHICAGO, May 12—Louis Leonhardt, 56-year-old printer, was on court probation today after his wife, Margaret, told Judge Leon Edelman that he had used money obtained by selling blood for transfusions to buy liquor.

She declared Leonhardt had abused her for the entire 26 years of their married life, and she hadn't complained.

"But, your honor," she said, "selling blood to buy liquor is too much."

The court agreed, fined Leonhardt $200 and costs, put him on probation and ordered him to pay support money for his wife and their 15-year-old daughter.

BOOSTS WOULD BE EFFECTIVE FOR DURATION

Vinson Forecasts Land And Sea Forces Of Nine Million Men

ALLOTMENT ACT AIRED

Broader Draft Pool Certain If Solons Provide Care For Dependents

WASHINGTON, May 12—The eleventh hour proposal by Rep. Vinson, (D) Ga., to make Army-Navy pay increases effective only for the war's duration drew scattered support today as the House took up this measure and the companion pay allotment bill.

The Edmiston bill providing allowances for dependents of men in the service came up before the House military affairs committee with Federal Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt as the first scheduled witness.

At the same time, the pay bill was carried to the floor for debate. Vinson's announced intention to offer an amendment increasing the measure apply only until the end of the war injected a new issue into the situation.

Vinson said that an Army of 8,000,000 men and a Navy of 1,000,000 are contemplated. Because of this huge striking force, he declared, this is "no time" to enact legislation setting a permanent pay scale for the armed forces.

May Will Agree

Rep. May (D) Ky., chairman of the military affairs committee which reported the pay-boost bill as a permanent revision, was "inclined to agree" with Vinson. Rep. Faddis (D) Pa., was similarly disposed. Vinson himself did not foresee much opposition.

"I think Congress will adopt it," he said.

But Rep. Kilday, (D) Texas., observed: "I don't know any reason why pay increases should be temporary—unless we go ahead and get it taken care of now, it never will be rectified. The American people don't get much interested in their Army and Navy until they are fighting a war."

The bill increases base pay of enlisted men, second lieutenants and ensigns and boosts allowances for three higher grades.

Most members appeared to be agreed that the Edmiston measure to provide support for the dependents of service men and thus open the door for a broader draft pool would pass the House.

STICKERS MAY REPLACE TAGS FOR OHIO CARS

COLUMBUS, May 12—Your 1943 auto license tag probably will be a sticker on the windshield.

Although the matter has not been decided as yet, and won't be until after a national meeting of state highway commissioners discusses the matter in July, State Highway Director Hal G. Sours said today that "the windshield sticker seems the only possible solution."

Details are yet to be worked out, including the decision to use gummed paper labels or more expensive decalcomanias, or transparent transfers. But one thing seems certain: the method employed will save for the war effort most of the 1,200 tons of steel used formerly as well as the $192,000 the 2,400,000 sets of license plates have cost the state each year.

Furthermore, Warden Frank D. Henderson of Ohio penitentiary said that the decision would free his metal stamping plant for use in war production.

"I can think of a dozen articles necessary to the war effort we can make in our license mill," he said.

Draft Will Shift Many During '42

12,000,000 To Be Placed In Army Or Production, Hershey Indicates

DETROIT, May 12—Prediction that by the end of 1942 12,000,000 men throughout the nation will be shifted to the armed forces or into war production plants was left today by Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, head of the national selective service.

Addressing an audience composed of draft board members, business and labor leaders as well as interested citizens, Hershey said: "In 1942, we must triple the number of men who were working in war industries last January 1. We must double the number of men in the armed forces by the end of the year. That means only one thing; moving some 12,000,000 individuals."

"In 1943 an even heavier load will be placed on our agencies. The needs of essential industry next year, I cannot predict."

"I do know this; in the days ahead of us we must use our over aged and our less physically fit men and women."

All the "so-called" luxuries of our present life must be eliminated, Hershey said.

At the same time, Hershey told the draft board members they must "make your own decisions" wherever knotty problems are involved.

He said the problem of dependency deferments rests with local draft boards and insofar as occupational deferments are concerned, he commented:

"We've got to maintain production but we're not going to provide a dugout where a man can be assured of safety from the draft."

In a question and answer session, Hershey said that under ordinary circumstances there is not too much advantage in enlisting instead of waiting to be drafted. He pointed out that of men recently chosen for officer's training programs, 62 percent had been drafted into the Army. He was asked about deferment of labor leaders and he said this problem too, rested with local boards.

He foresaw little chance of men over 40 with dependents being called to active Army service before 1943.

DOUBLE PARKER CITED

James Carr, Washington C. H. truck driver, was arrested by police Monday evening at 8:15 for double parking on West Main street. He posted bond pending hearing in mayor's court Tuesday evening. Police recently warned local drivers that this violation will be stopped.

HOARDERS OF AUTO FUEL RUSH GOTHAM STATIONS

NEW YORK, May 12—A rush to "hoard" gasoline before the rationing restrictions are imposed in New York Friday was reported today.

Containers, ranging from milk bottles to five and ten gallon cans were being filled at many gas stations. Some dealers refused to sell gasoline for containers, and limited sales for cars to one dollar's worth.

Many automobile owners obtained full tanks and then returned for another full tank, apparently having syphoned the gas into a container at home.

WOMEN'S ARMY MEASURE READY FOR FINAL VOTE

WASHINGTON, May 12—The Senate today passed and sent to the White House the Rogers bill establishing a women's army auxiliary for semi-military service. The vote was 38 to 27.

WASHINGTON, May 12—Senate today is expected to pass the House-approved Rogers bill creating a women's auxiliary army corps and send it to the White House for presidential approval.

With the War department urging quick action so that an auxiliary corps can be recruited, Senate military affairs committee leaders hoped for speedy passage.

Rejecting proposals that women be enlisted directly in the Army, the committee recommended the alternative plan in the Rogers bill of creating an auxiliary corps. Members would be subject to War department orders and discipline.

High War department officials have indicated that 150,000 women may be recruited for the auxiliary corps, and used in widely varying capacities.

Some War department officials said that the women may be used for all types of service, except combat duties, and that they may serve at scenes of battle.

Women may be used as ambulance drivers, telephone operators, communications experts and a host of similar specialist activities.

BETTOR IS GIVEN RIGHT TO RECOVER HIS LOSSES

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., May 12—A better has a right to recover his losses from a professional gambler.

The ruling by the court of appeals in Albany today cost Frank Erickson, wealthy New York bookmaker, $42,500.

In an out of court settlement—a few days before a retrial was scheduled—Erickson agreed to pay this sum in settlement of a $193,620 claim instituted by John Wight Austin, disabled New York attorney and now a California aircraft corporation executive. The money will go to clients of the former attorney.

Nazi Storm Troop Chief Lists Loss

Many Killed At Front Since Start Of War; 12 Generals Slain

STOCKHOLM, May 12—Viktor Lutze, chief of staff of the German storm troopers, has informed Berlin correspondents that heavy losses have been suffered among 1,000,000 storm troopers who have been sent to the front since outbreak of the war, dispatches received in Stockholm said today.

Lutze was said to have revealed that 12 generals and 27 brigadiers were among those killed. It was pointed out that the storm troopers do not constitute independent units but are found in every regiment of the German army.

Meanwhile the newspaper Dagens Nyheter said that German fears that the British might attempt a large-scale landing in Norway were revealed by the fact that the majority of women, children and old men had been removed from Norwegian coastal towns.

The official reason for the evacuation was said to be the guarding of these persons against air raids on the coast as well as the need for additional labor required on inland agricultural jobs.

GOERING AFTER VICHY PROMISE OF MORE HELP

LONDON, May 12—An unconfirmed rumor that Marshal Hermann Goering now is in Paris bearing far-reaching demands on Vichy was received by Reuters' (British) news agency from the "French frontier" today.

Goering was said to carry a threat that Germany would permit Italy to occupy Tunis and Corsica if the demands are not met. The diplomatic correspondent of the London Evening Standard said that one demand was severance of relations between Vichy France and the United States.

BOETTCHER, 40, ABDUCTED IN 1933, IN AIR CORPS

DENVER, May 12—Charles Boettcher II, member of a prominent Colorado family and central figure in a sensational kidnapping case nine years ago, announced today he had been commissioned a first lieutenant in the Army Air Corps and would leave at once for Miami Beach, Fla., to take special training.

Boettcher is 40 years old and long has been interested in flying. He was held for $60,000 ransom on a Dakota ranch following his abduction from his Denver home in 1933.

Valuable Caucasus Eyed By Germans; Rostov Attack Believed Planned

BULLETIN

LONDON, May 12—"Hell has let loose over Bolshevik positions on the Kerch peninsula," a German military spokesman announced today, according to Reuters' (British) news agency.

"Squadron after squadron of German planes are racing over the front, carrying out dive-bombing attacks," the spokesman was quoted as saying.

LONDON, May 12—Soviet bombers in eastern Crimea are heavily attacking enemy troop concentrations and supply columns, Reuter reported from somewhere on the German frontier today.

LONDON, May 12—German attack on the Kerch peninsula in the Russian Crimea was launched several days ago and reports indicated that the Nazis made little progress before they were thrown back to their original positions after suffering heavy casualties, an authoritative British spokesman said today.

BERLIN, May 12—(By Official German Wireless)—A battle in the Kerch peninsula of Russia is in full swing, following an attack by German and Romanian troops, supported by strong forces of the Luftwaffe, the DNB news agency announced today.

The attack was launched last Friday, DNB said.

By JAMES E. BROWN

MOSCOW, May 12—Tough sailors from the Black sea areas and well-trained troops of the Russian Caucasian command today waged a stubborn battle of resistance against the first heavy Spring drive by the Germans.

The Nazi assault, launched against the Soviet garrison on the Kerch peninsula, may develop into the spearhead of the long-delayed Hitler Spring offensive.

(A dispatch of the Exchange Telegraph agency said heavy fighting was in progress "as the German Spring offensive continues.")

The Russians have maintained considerable forces in the peninsula area which are expected to give a good account of themselves.

Strong Soviet air forces based in that section of the Crimea undoubtedly will play a vital part in combating the German campaign.

Observers in Moscow interpreted the German onslaught as an indication that the Nazi Spring offensive will be aimed at the valuable oil-rich Caucasus.

The assault, begun yesterday, may mean the beginning of a grand-scale offensive but so far there is insufficient evidence to justify a belief that a major drive is under way.

There was little doubt, however, that the Germans were rousing from the Winter-long lull following a Soviet drive five months ago which pushed them back from Kerch, only five miles across the Kerch straits from the Caucasus.

First Enemy Move

The Soviet announcement of the drive, made in the Red Army midnight communique, was the first time in several months that the Russians have reported any enemy move as an "offensive action."

"On the Kerch peninsula," the communique said, "the Soviets fought stubborn engagements against the attacking Germans."

(In a dispatch from Stockholm the London Daily Mail said there was little doubt that the Kerch attack was the first stage of the German Spring offensive.)

MOVEMENT FOR WAR CHEST TO BE OPEN HERE

Chamber Of Commerce Will Sponsor Gathering In Court House

SPEAKERS WILL APPEAR

Division To Be Set For Handling Money Needed In War Effort

Pickaway county War Chest movement will get under way Friday evening at 8 o'clock when all persons interested in coordinating the solicitation and distribution of all contributions to the various national, state and local war agencies will attend a meeting in the court house sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce.

A. V. Osborn, president of the C. of C., has announced that there will be several speakers for the evening who will discuss the War Chest organization and its functioning in other communities.

At Friday's meeting all those present will vote on establishing the project and if the issue is carried a committee will be selected with power to appoint officers to operate the War Chest program.

Leaders of this movement expect a large crowd at the gathering because of the popularity of War Chests in most other cities.

DISTRIBUTION OF DEFENSE FUNDS BEING STUDIED

Prosecutor George E. Gerhardt, who is a member of the Pickaway county Budget Commission, is contacting other rural counties in south central Ohio to determine whether county Defense Councils have been formed by county commissioners and what method is being used in distributing money received from the state for Defense Council purposes.

Gerhardt was instructed to obtain this information Monday when he appeared before the Pickaway county commissioners and asked that organization to appoint a Defense coordinator. Commissioners say that information they have does not clarify distribution of $13,100 received for Defense Council purposes.

The prosecutor expects to have information in time to present it to the commissioners at their meeting next Monday.

FIVE OHIO CCC CAMPS TO BE DISBANDED SOON

COLUMBUS, May 12 — Five more Ohio civilian conservation camps were ordered disbanded by the Fifth Corps Area officials in line with a nationwide retrenchment policy. The camps are at Chillicothe, Rockbridge, St. Paris, Attica and Marion.

RAYMOND JEFFREYS WILL TALK AT WALNUT SCHOOL

Raymond J. Jeffreys, Cleveland, will make the commencement address at the Walnut township high school next Tuesday, May 19. Jeffreys is a former lieutenant in the U. S. Army and Air Service during the first World War. He was a newspaper foreign correspondent after the war.

MOSLEY DIVORCE FILED

Margie B. Mosley, Logan street, has filed suit for divorce from James Mosley on grounds of gross neglect, claiming desertion. They were married May 18, 1929 and have one child, Ellen. She asks for permanent alimony and custody of the child.

Barking and cycling lizards and house-building rodents are among the strange animals found in Australia.

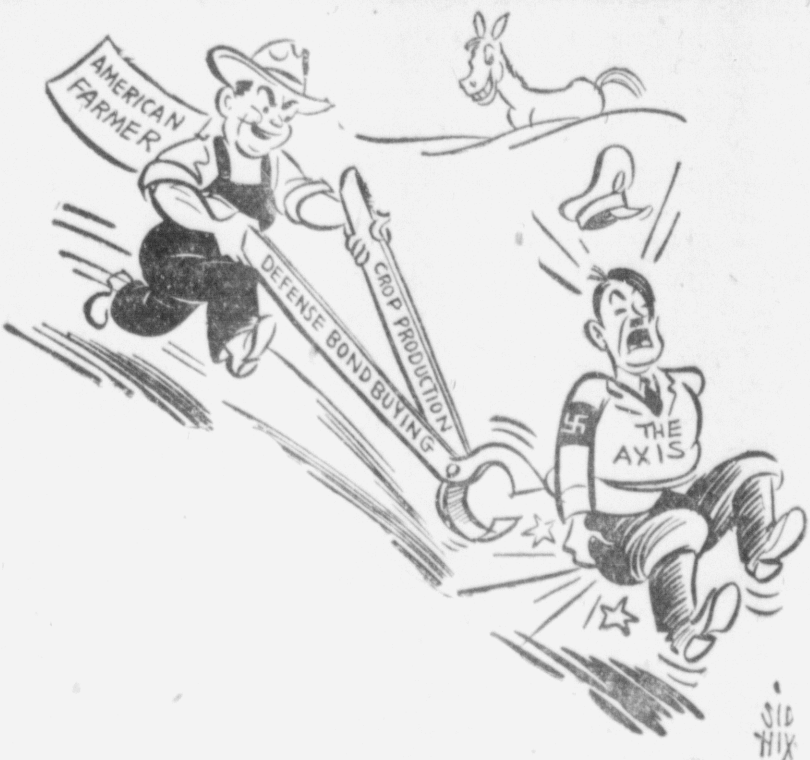

RUPTURE SHIELD EXPERT HERE

H. M. Shevnan, widely known expert of Chicago, will personally be at the Warner Hotel, Chillicothe, Thursday, only, May 14, from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Mr. Shevnan says: The Zoetic Shield is a tremendous improvement over all former methods, effecting immediate results. It will not only hold the rupture perfectly but increase the circulation, strengthens the weakened parts, thereby closes the opening in ten days on the average case, regardless of heavy lifting, straining or any position the body may assume no matter the size or location. A nationally known scientific method. No under straps or cumbersome arrangements and absolutely no medicines or medical treatments.

Mr. Shevnan will be glad to demonstrate without charge. For descriptive literature or rupture shield operation especially solicited.

HERE'S A PINCHER MOVEMENT WE CAN ALL USE ON THE AXIS

More Than 100 Finish Ten Hours Of Training

For the last two weeks 108 persons in Circleville have been training for Civilian Defense work by taking a ten hour course in first aid. Most of these completed their training Monday evening in the ten hour course which will make them available for auxiliary firemen, policemen, nurses and other emergency posts. However, most of those who have completed the course will continue with ten hours of advanced training for a Red Cross certificate of qualified first aid.

Various classes have been held nightly in the program and a new series will begin next week with those wishing to enroll doing so at the Red Cross headquarters.

ARMY NEEDS MEN FOR CONSTRUCTION TASKS

Headquarters Fifth Corps area at Fort Hayes, Columbus, has announced that there is a definite need in the Army today for men who have had experience in many branches of the construction field. On enlistment these men will be sent to an engineer replacement training center for assignment to engineer units now in the process of organization.

Blacksmiths, tool dressers, demolition men and foremen, bridge construction foremen, railway construction foremen, general construction foremen, crane operators, compressor operators, mechanic foremen, structural steel workers, quarrymen, riggers and foremen, jackhammer operators, tool room keepers, water supply operators, highway construction machinery operators and foremen, hoist engineers and rock crusher foremen are some of the fields in which vacancies exist.

Although it was stated that no definite information was available as to promotions open to these men, it was also stated that men in the Army are appointed to grades consistent with their ability and the duties which they are performing.

American citizens between the ages of 18 and 45, qualified in any of the above fields should contact their nearest Army recruiting office at once. Men above 45 years of age who have had previous Army service are also eligible for enlistment in many instances.

BOND DRIVE ON, SMITH REPORTS

Political Groups At Work To Reach $30,400 Quota During May

With a staff of some 134 persons, Earl A. Smith, Pickaway county chairman for the sale of government bonds and stamps, has announced that the program is under way with every wage earner in the county to be contacted in the bond-pledge drive.

Mr. Smith has sent the necessary equipment for solicitation to all members of the Democratic and Republican executive and central committees who will canvass the entire county in an effort to put Pickaway county over the top in its $30,400 quota drive.

All persons who have been requested to aid in the drive who cannot participate are turning over their duties to other responsible patriots.

In the month of May as in all other months of this struggle the government has asked all to make every pay day "Bond Day" and to a democratic plea for a democratic cause a democratic people always respond.

SUCCESS OF CONCERT THURSDAY EVE RESTS IN HANDS OF SELLERS

Robert G. Colville, in charge of arrangements, stated Tuesday that plans for the Civilian Defense Benefit concert Thursday evening at the high school are complete with school pupils winding up a long series of practices for the event.

He has also stated that success or failure of this undertaking lies largely in the effort of persons handling ticket sales.

AAA OFFICE ANNOUNCES RULINGS FOR QUOTAS

County AAA officials released information Tuesday concerning wheat allotments they are establishing for 1943.

No allotments are being established for farms which did not harvest wheat in 1940, 1941 or 1942 and any farmer who did not plant wheat in these seasons and intends to plant wheat for 1943 harvest must request an allotment by June 1, 1942 if he wishes to participate in the program.

It will be impossible to establish allotments for these farms after June 1, 1942 because any acreage allotted to the county which they do not need will be assigned to more regular wheat producing farms at that time.

No 1943 payment on this type of allotment will be made, but if the farmer plants within his allotment there will be no deduction from any other AAA payment earned on the farm, and the farm will not be subject to 1943 wheat marketing quotas if the plantings do not exceed the allotment or 15 acres, whichever is larger.

METHODIST MEN TO MEET MAY 21; SESSION DELAYED

PUBLIC TIRE POLICY

TALK about confiscating tires, and leaving millions of cars standing in the garage on their rims, is dying down. Recent pronouncements from Washington have indicated that for some time, at least, there will be no governmental forays against the normal use of tires by normal citizens for normal purposes. Even the spares are not to be jerked out of the rear trunk by pitiless searchers for contraband rubber. A normal citizen doing his necessary driving is to be allowed to keep five good tires if he has them, and only extras beyond that number are to be taken for federal use—as they should be.

It is recognized by fair-minded citizens that in times like these, private property and normal private rights are properly subject to invasion by the government in compelling emergencies. With such a principle, fairly applied, no good American can quarrel. And if a time comes when it is apparent that the government really needs all the private cars and trucks, or all their tires, for national defense, the public will be ready for the sacrifice.

It is well to be mentally prepared for many kinds of inconvenience and hardship. This war cannot be won without them. But there should be an end to irresponsible and confusing threats of expropriation.

ON THE OFFENSIVE

THE raid on Madagascar, whatever its outcome, shows what can be done by taking the offensive after careful preparation. Many of the Axis gains came from their taking the initiative, while the United Nations were content with merely striving to ward off attacks.

A prizefighter who only staved off his opponent's blows without hitting back would not last long in the ring. Raids like this on Madagascar and the earlier British attack on the French seaport of St. Nazaire are gratifying variants on the so-called policy of passive defense. With the United States actively in the war, more and more surprising assaults on the enemy will ensue. Our bombing of Tokyo was one such, and will have successors. That way lies victory.

AMAZING BOMBS

"THE present bombing campaign is very unpopular with the German people," So runs an innocent semi-official German statement, hinting for a gentleman's agreement with the English whereby each side would cease from bombing the other's cities.

For unconscious humor the above state-have been available in more than sufficient numbers to prescribe for already existing invalids and new-folk haven't fallen ill fast enough to pay the rising generation of medical office rent and keep 'em in automobiles.

Litigation hasn't developed adequately to furnish briefs for youthful barristers and solicitors. Male-faction's been too backward to keep 'em busy with criminal cases. Worshippers seemingly have been shy even on remorse. Cracking into a pulp has been slow work.

A junior doc, heretofore, frequently has had to string along indefinitely as a mere interne before starting to doctor independently. A junior lawyer's had to be satisfied, up into middle life, with a minor clerical job with some big, established firm, before es-pearing in court in his individual capacity. A junior clergyman has remained as a curate, or what corresponds to it, in his particular denomination, before getting a church of his own.

Too Many

There's been a plethora of 'em, that's the nub of it. But a plethora has to have an original aggregation to extract it from and, shortly, there's going to be no such original aggregation from which to extract.

Why not? Why, because all eligible kids are being sucked off into the military service. When they come out, if the war spins out a bit, it'll be too late for 'em to start, at that late date, and they'll go into something else.

True, quite a few of 'em are in it now, but Uncle Sam wants 'em as fast as they're turned loose—all of 'em on general principles; young docs for the medical corps, young clergymen for chaplainships, young lawyers for the Judge Advocate General's office or some similar vacancy. They're specialists, and they're needed, one way or another.

The drafting of 'em's beginning to create a vacuum. The chaps who ooze back into it, at the war's end, will refill it considerably, but the guys who've made good meanwhile will be fixed to stick considerably, it's guessed especially if the row's long enough drawn out to have semi-institutionalized today's incumbents.

This isn't my lone hypothesis. It's a testimony of the American Council of Education, which

NAVY BRASSHATS FAIL

WASHINGTON—All hands are keeping quiet about it, but there was a hot fight in the closed-door session of the Senate Naval Affairs committee over the bill authorizing the Navy to acquire an "unlimited number" of blimps for off-shore patrolling.

Secretary Frank Knox strongly approved the measure. So did Navy air chiefs and other experts. But despite these endorsements and the fact that the serious shipping toll continues unabated, a clique of non-air-minded brasshats fought the bill so strenuously that they almost succeeded in wrecking it.

The battle raged around a brasshat-inspired amendment to limit the number of blimps the Navy could acquire.

To the surprise of everyone the amendment was offered by Senator Guy Gillette of Iowa, who usually is an outspoken foe of the brasshats. But on this occasion he rushed into the secret meeting with a breathless announcement that he had just conferred with "some high Navy officers" who were of the opinion that blimps were ineffective against submarines.

These officers, Gillette continued, felt that pending further study the number of blimps should be limited. This argument was immediately recognized as an old brasshat dodge that has been repeatedly used to block development of Navy air power.

The Navy has been experimenting with lighter-than-air ships for many years and probably has the best experts in the world in this field.

"Who are these high Navy officers to whom you refer?" Gillette was asked.

The Iowan hemmed and hawed for a few minutes, finally declared, "I am not at liberty to disclose their names."

"Why not?" a committee member demanded.

"It might embarrass them," Gillette replied.

It unquestionably would have embarrassed them because the Navy officers present promptly and bluntly refuted the attacks on the blimp. They asserted that contrary to being ineffective, the blimp was the "natural enemy" of the submarine and has been highly successful in eliminating the sub danger wherever used.

Finally, after a heated argument, the committee took a vote on the brasshat amendment. The result was a 3 to 3 tie, which under the rules defeated the scheme and saved the bill from mutilation.

The three voting for the brasshats were Gillette, Peter Gerry, Rhode Island socialite, and Hiram Johnson, California's petulant isolationist. The antis were Senators Ralph Brewster of Maine, Charles

Nation's Eating Habits Changed by the War

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

IN THE 20 years between World War I and World War II the science of nutrition grew to manhood. In 1890 nobody knew anything about food—man's requirements. About 1850 the word "calorie" was born in the sense that it came to be defined as a unit of food requirement. In 1911 the word "vitamin" was born, but no real application of the scientific knowledge of vitamins was made until about 1920. Since then we have, of course, become very vitamin conscious.

Dr. Clendingen will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

With wartime conditions we are forced by necessity to make adjustments in our food habits. Only one feature of this has really hit us yet, which is sugar rationing. It has often been suggested by official sources within the past few weeks that substitutes for sugar can be used, such as corn syrup, molasses, honey, etc. This is a perfectly sensible suggestion so far as science is concerned.

Corn syrup has for many years been advocated by children's specialists to be added to formulae for bottle feeding because infants can digest it better than table sugar and it fits all nutritional requirements.

The practical objection to these substitutes is that the supply is even more limited than that of ordinary table sugar. I am told by wholesale grocers that the economic structure of the country has not been geared to the manufacture of molasses, corn syrup or honey in any quantity.

Incidentally, our ancestors never knew what our table sugar tasted like. Their sweetening was in the form of honey. To show this, the words "diabetes mellitus" were attached to the disease in the day when there was no such thing as sugar. "Mellitus" means, literally, honey.

Processed Foods in Wartime We are also being advised that we eat too much sugar, that we have been eating too much sugar and that the rationing will have a healthy effect. We are told this by the same people who told us a few months ago that 85 million Americans were in a state of semi-starvation.

Nevertheless, we are in for a number of changes in our eating habits. In an interview with one of the recognized authorities on nutrition in the United States, he told me that undoubtedly the American people are going to have to get used to processed foods, and when the word processed is used it really means that. We can not afford, with our limited rolling stock and shipping, to transport water around the world, so we will have to use dried foods to which water will be added before they are put on the table.

The average person, left to his instincts, selects a diet with considerable scientific accuracy. As a matter of fact, science learned what the dietary requirements of the average man were by watching the average man eat. You were not told by science what you should eat, but on the contrary, you told science. You probably eat about 3,000 calories a day. The foods you eat are two-thirds carbohydrates, one-sixth proteins and one-sixth fat by weight. You select instinctively foods which contain the requisite mineral salts and vitamins as well as the requisite caloric content.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

J. W. H.—Besides being painful, is pleurisy serious? Is there any remedy for relieving it other than heat?

Answer: Pleurisy, in a certain number of cases, turn into tuberculosis and to that extent they are dangerous. Besides the treatment by heat, it is helpful to healing and comfort to have the side strapped up with adhesive tape so that the amount of motion is diminished.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendingen has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendingen, in care of this paper. CHAPTER TWENTY

AFTER THAT day, when Tibby and Wayne had agreed to be friends, shaking hands solemnly to seal the pledge, their friendship ripened rapidly. They called one another now by their first names; they nearly always had a snack of some kind together when the flying lesson was over; they were on a familiar, comradely sort of footing.

There was nothing more than friendship, however. If Wayne still felt that there were other things he might want to say to her, he must have still felt, too, that it was too soon to say then, or he respected her agreement that they would be friends, an agreement on her part that had stressed that that was all they could be.

Then one day—the lesson over—Wayne asked her if she would go to the aviation banquet that was being held in one of the big hotels the following Friday evening. "I think you'll enjoy it," he said. "There will be lots of famous flyers there, several interesting speakers, and afterward a dance on the roof garden."

"It sounds lovely," Tibby admitted, although as soon as she had, she wished she hadn't. This would be going a step further. This was the first time Wayne had asked for what might well be considered a "date." It was still well within the boundaries of friendship, but also there still was Steena to be considered.

Tibby happened to know that Steena was counting on being invited to the aviation banquet herself. She expected Wayne to invite her. She even had discussed what she would wear on such a momentous occasion, for this banquet was the outstanding event of the season. She had said she wished she could have a new dress, as of course she would want to look her very best and do Wayne justice.

And here was Wayne inviting Tibby!

"I'll pick you up around seven-thirty." He took her admission that the affair would be "lovely" as an acceptance. That was his way, to take acceptance for granted.

"But I'm . . . I'm not sure I can go," Tibby said, not as readily as she should have, for she would like to go. She even had a new dress to wear. One that—so far—she had not had any occasion to wear anywhere, but how could she explain this to Steena? How could she hurt her by accepting an invitation Steena had not received?

"What do you mean, you are not sure?" Wayne's steel-gray eyes met hers with that penetrating look that would brook no evasion. "You haven't another engagement so far ahead, have you? Or if so, surely it is one you could break, under the circumstances. The aviation ball is quite a doings, my dear." His tone implied that she ought to realize that; also that it was not every girl who had a chance to attend such an important function.

She knew, too, that he meant, by that look, to remind her that a refusal would be going back on their agreement. "No-no," she said. "I haven't any other engagement." It would be fun to dress up, to dance on a roof garden to a "name" orchestra, to meet exciting and interesting people.

"Then I shan't take no," Wayne said firmly. Why did she always try to refuse him? He was sure it was not because she did not want to go. Every girl enjoyed an affair of this kind. Almost every girl especially enjoyed it when escorted by such a competent escort as Wayne had reason to believe he could be, when it so suited him.

"I'll be ready," Tibby promised. "I'm always ready on time. If you'll just have the chauffeur honk or press the downstairs buzzer." That was the arrangement when Wayne called for Steena. And maybe Tibby had some wild idea of trying to keep Steena from knowing this time that the call was not for her. To spare Steena's feelings mostly, not to try to deceive her, for Tibby knew, having committed herself this far, that Steena would have to know eventually. When that time came, Tibby decided, they would have to have it out. Tibby would tell Steena that she and Wayne were friends—nothing more—and that she had had to accept his invitation.

"I may dispense with the services of my chauffeur that evening," Wayne smiled in his slow, amused way, for he was amused, since it occurred to him now that he saw an inkling as to her constant and continuous efforts at refusing to accept his attentions. Tibby shared the same apartment with Steena Winters. That meant that she knew he often took Steena out in the evening. He even had thought of taking Steena to this particular ball, but on an impulse he had asked Tibby instead. She might have thought he would take her roommate. That could be adjusted easily. Steena would receive a call—perhaps a charter trip flight, something unexpected. Wayne was as expert at managing any such small situation that might prove embarrassing, as easily as he was able to get his own way in much more important matters.

He did not intend now, however, to let Tibby know that he suspected why she had been hesitant and why she had suggested his chauffeur give the signal that he was waiting. Wayne could manage even that small an embarrassment, for it might be as embarrassing to her, he could see now, as it would for him, were he to concede that he had to offer any explanation as to whom he should invite to the banquet.

He said, "Perhaps you wouldn't mind taking a cab and meeting me at the hotel? It just so happens that Friday will be a pretty full day for me. There are some charter trips that must be worked in and it would hurry me to have to go home and change, then pick you up."

"Oh, that will be fine," Tibby hoped her relief was not too noticeable. She did not mind at all taking a cab. She much preferred it. "That's most considerate of you."

He thanked her with that ironic little twist to his handsome lips. "Until Friday, then—and don't you dare disappoint me, Cinderella. Or try to slip away at 12 o'clock. And, by the way, I shall have your flowers sent to the hotel, too, so they will be fresher. Give your name to the maid in the powder room; she will have them to pin on you."

Tibby thanked him, promising not to disappoint him. She felt, should anything happen now to prevent her from going to the dance, that she would be the one most disappointed. It had been a long time since she had had a corsage, a chance to dress up. Tommy never took her anywhere that required formal attire. He never sent her flowers. And, aside from Tommy—who really did not count—there was no one else to provide such luxuries.

Tibby would feel like Cinderella, as Wayne had called her teasingly. She would be terribly excited and thrilled, although such emotions were slightly dampened when she thought of Steena's disappointment.

But Steena was disappointed in a different way. She announced on Thursday that she had to make a special charter flight. Some very famous motion picture stars were to be the passengers. Steena seemed so excited over this that it lessened any disappointment she might otherwise have felt, as she explained that that meant she could not go to the aviation ball, since she could not possibly get back until Saturday.

"Just imagine meeting Clark Gable!" Steena exclaimed. "And Robert Taylor—at least I think he is one of them. They're all going south to the big preview of that Civil War picture. And Wayne said he wanted me to be hostess, because he knew I would get quite a kick out of it."

Tibby wondered if Wayne had inferred that he would have taken Steena to the banquet, had she been home. Steena left that impression, although maybe only to cover her hurt at not having been asked when she had counted on it.

In a way it did not seem quite fair, if Wayne had done this even, if it did make matters simpler for Tibby, for she could tell Steena afterward that Wayne had taken her to the dance. Steena would not need to know he had asked Tibby ahead of time. Being Steena, she probably would decide Tibby had been second choice.

Today's Horoscope

Ambition, practicality, mental keenness and a stern capacity for carrying plans and hopes to a successful conclusion mark today's birthday children. They are affectionate and literary. A financially successful year awaits them. Those in government employ win promotion, and inheritance is not improbable. Some little love or domestic disagreement may arise during this time. A child born on this date will be ambitious, enterprising, capable, and a good organizer. Recognition and success will be achieved early. Such a child will evince many fine traits.

Hints on Etiquette

Do not go into a first-class restaurant and order a dish of ice cream or a cup of tea only. The profits of the house on these items will not pay even for the laundering of the table linen.

Makers of toys and novelties used up enough crude rubber in the last quarter of 1941 to have equipped 2,000 two-and-one-half-ton trucks for the Army, or 10,000 half-tonners.

STARS SAY—

For Tuesday, May 12

A DEFINITE promise is found in this day's astral configurations for the inception, development and fruitful culmination of projects and ventures of large scope and significance. This may be in collaboration with important bodies and through means of well organized strategies and techniques. It is a time for pushing to high goals and with confidence and assurance of help from the most influential sources. Cultivate these with diplomacy and tact in spite of small setbacks or peculiar annoyances. In private affairs be discreet.

Those whose birthday it is may have the assurance of a successful attainment of their high ambitions, with the hearty support of those in power and public standing, with all manner of major corporations and fraternal or political groups ready to assist in well-laid plans and clever strategies. There may be trivial anxieties or surprising twists to these, but use finesse in approaching influential personages. Also be circumspect in personal relations and conduct.

A child born on this day should have high ambitions with much ability and personal strategy and tact for attaining outstanding success and prestige. Its splendid traits may gain public acclaim.

PRIVATE WINS CONTEST

FRANKLIN, Ind.—Army service doesn't decrease skill in angling. Private Woodrow Yount, of Camp Shelby, Miss., has discovered. Last year he won a fishing contest by catching the largest bass snagged in Johnson county. It was a beauty that weighed 5½ pounds. But while he was on furlough here a few days ago, he fixed up his tackle and headed toward Sugar Creek. In a short time he had landed a six-pound bass, which he has entered in this year's contest.

Two Banquets Honoring Mothers Are Conducted

Lutheran, Methodist Church Sessions Are Staged

Two outstanding social affairs observing Mother's Day were held in Circleville Monday evening. The Von Bora society of Trinity Lutheran church entertained in the parish house at a banquet for 125 members and guests and Mrs. Marion's class of the Methodist church had a group of more than 70 at a dinner for Mothers and Daughters in the church social room. The dinner of Mrs. Marion's class had a double significance in that it celebrated also the 30th anniversary of the organization.

Mass arrangements of dogwood, snowballs and iris were used about the dining room of the Lutheran parish house where tables for eight were arranged in the patriotic V formation. The tables were centered with bowls of roses, painted daisies and sweet peas and had tall white paper napkins tied with red, white and blue ribbon bows at either end. The napkins continued the patriotic theme and a lovely pansy was the favor at each cover. Many American flags were used throughout the room.

Miss Catherine Fischer, president of the society, arranged the after-dinner program which opened with a friendly welcome by Mrs. Luther Bower. Mrs. H. H. Groce responded in behalf of the mothers. Miss Anna Schleyer played two excellent piano solos; group singing, "America"; reading, Mrs. Gilbert Edgington; vocal duets, Mrs. Dudley Carpenter and Mrs. Everett Peters; toast to Mothers, Mrs. Fred Brown; group singing, "Battle Hymn of the Republic" and "The Star-Spangled Banner"; three tableaux, "Mother of the Past", Mrs. Edward Sensenbrenner; "Mother of the Present", Mrs. George L. Troutman, Ruth and George Emerson Troutman, and "Mother of the Future", Joyce Troutman, whose vocal solo concluded the entertainment.

Mrs. Mary Schleyer was honored as the oldest mother and Mrs. Robert Norman, Newark, the youngest mother, both receiving lovely gifts.

Mrs. J. Wallace Crist and Mrs. R. L. Brehmer were co-chairmen of the committee responsible for the colorful decorations.

Miss Mary Weffer was chairman of the kitchen committee comprised of Mrs. Frank Webbe, Miss Margaret and Miss Martha Crist, Mrs. James Carpenter, Mrs. Alice Sensenbrenner, Mrs. Frank Turner, Mrs. Walter Heise and Miss Jean Fitzpatrick.

With the tables arranged in an open square, the burning candles in the quaint gum-drop favors and the tapers in the bowls of tulips and spirea made a brilliant scene as the guests at the banquet of Mrs. Marion's class found places for the delightful dinner. Souvenir program favors in the form of candles were found at each cover. Mrs. Marion, class teacher for 30 years, cut the mammoth three-tier birthday cake which was served with the dessert course.

Mrs. Marion pronounced the invocation and the address of welcome was voiced by Mrs. George Little, class president, who served as toastmistress.

Mrs. Sam C. Elisea of Jackson, formerly of Circleville, gave an excellent talk on mothers and homes and included bits of homely philosophy from her own experiences and read several timely poems during her well-received discussion.

As mothers and other guests were presented, each was given a small pot of Ivy. Mrs. Marion received a fine copy of the painting, "The Holy Supper," as a gift from the girls of the class.

The delightful entertainment as a showing of the play presented originally by members of the Monday club at its March social session. The play, "One Hundred Years of the Struthers Family," written by Mrs. Ray Davis and Mrs. Hulse Hays, was a modern adaptation of the old "Family Album."

Women's league is the organization that includes every woman student in its membership. The league aims to promote a feeling of unity and friendship among Ohio university women. Some of the league's main functions include freshmen mixer, all-campus

Tea was served in the dining room, the table having a centerpiece of Spring flowers, featuring lovely iris. Mrs. Pile poured.

Mrs. B. T. Hedges and Mrs. Christian Schwarz of Circleville were guests in addition to chapter members.

Washington School Play
Senior class of Washington township high school will present the play "M'liss, My Western Miss" in the school auditorium Friday at 8 p. m. The play is based on the story of Bret Harte.

In the little mining town of Smith's Pocket in the Sierras lives George Smith (Emanuel Mast) and his young daughter, M'liss (Geneva Lovett). Smith is known as 'Bummer', the town loafer, for about the only work he does is to work a small claim occasionally, believing that one day it would yield great wealth. Unbeknown to Smith, his brother died in the East and left him his entire fortune. Two schemers from the East, Carter Longdon (Chester Wertman) and Clara Hunting (Helen Bowman), arrive in Smith's Pocket and plan to do away with Smith and gain possession of his wealth. John Guy (Charles McCoy), the school teacher, is accused of murder but is saved by M'liss, the girl he loves.

The play has a supporting cast of Bess Starlight (Ruth Diltz), an actress; Yuka Bill (Paul Brobst), a comic cowboy; Clytie Moffitt (Dorothy Schreick) M'liss' rival; Mrs. Maffita (Doris Kraft), the owner of the Roarin' Dog hotel, the scene of the play, and Judge McSnaggle (Paul Ott), the amusing western judge.

dances, sorority sing, mother's weekend and others.

As president of Women's league, Miss McCord and John Hlinka as president of Men's union have been asked by Dean Lange, dean of men, to lead the commencement procession, May 31.

SOUP OF VICTORY METALS

SOUP OF VICTORY VITLES

There are two kinds of "soup" vital to America's victory. One consists of molten metals "cooked" in huge crucibles at high temperatures in the steel plants of the nation. These metals become fighting tanks, ships, shells, and guns. The other is a soup of vitamins, minerals, proteins and other food values cooked in the kitchens of the land. These "vittles" go to build strong bodies, clear minds, healthy men, women and children.

Uncle Sam needs both "soups" in unprecedented quantities to win this war. Now we are supplying gas to serve both uses. Dependable, flexible, efficient gas service is in demand as never before in home and factory.

Yes, today, gas is "doing double duty"—serving the home front and the industrial front—shouldering a double responsibility with a single purpose, to help win the war.

BUCKEYES GRID TEAM TO CONDUCT PREVIEW

COLUMBUS, May 12 — Ohio State will have an insight to its fortunes of next Fall's football campaign when Coach Paul E. Brown sends his charges against one another next Saturday at 3 p. m. in the annual Spring game, denoting the end of the off-season practice period.

The lineup of the competing squads pits the first and fourth teams against the combined forces of the second and third stringers, and Buckeye followers, anxious to see what effect the draft and graduation has had upon the "lean and hungry" horde, will undoubtedly flock to Ohio Stadium in large numbers to watch the intra-squad skirmish.

The game will serve as a climax to the eleventh annual Ohio State football clinic in collaboration with the annual meeting of the Ohio High School Football Coaches Association scheduled to convene in Columbus, Friday. The two-day session is expected to attract some 500 scholastic mentors.

LANDIS IN HOSPITAL

CHICAGO, May 12 — Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis was at a Chicago hospital today receiving treatment for a cold. His physician, Dr. Arthur F. Byfield, said Landis' condition was not serious. The commissioner is 76 years old.

DIZ DEAN IN ACTION

CHICAGO, May 12 — Chicago will get another look at the pitching arm of Dizzy Dean May 24 when the former Cubs and St. Louis Cardinal hurler leads his all-stars against the Kansas City Monarchs, champions of the Negro American league, it was announced today. Dean's opponent on the mound at Wrigley field will be Satchel Paige.

fighting for the benefit of the people." Another Hilversum broadcast bitterly denounced the Dutch for not volunteering to fight on the Russian front and for "ridiculing and maliciously teasing" boys and girls who join the Nazi youth societies.

HEROIC DUTCH
 The heroic Dutch are fighting back grimly at Hitler in Holland. An underground movement striking at occupation forces and Dutch Nazis has been so effective that the Germans, in a desperate effort to retaliate, arrested 79 Dutchmen, many of them former army officers. Of this group 72 were shot and the other seven imprisoned for life.

Evidence that the underground movement is widespread and that the Nazis and Dutch traitors are afraid of it was publicly revealed in a Hilversum broadcast. It said: "There are still many people who oppose the new times and who underestimate the strength of the young nations. In particular, the priests and teachers, who call themselves the spiritual leaders of the nation, oppose in overwhelming majority the rebirth of the nation. Without any justification they proclaim themselves representatives of Christendom and they say they are Tinkham was in the Parker House in Boston when Senator Francis T. Maloney of Connecticut came up and began chatting with him. Tinkham was voluble and they conversed for some time, but Maloney saw that Tinkham obviously did not recognize him.

"Mr. Tinkham," said Maloney, "I'll bet you $25 you don't know who I am."

"Oh, yes I do," Tinkham protested, "you are that Veteran's case my office wrote me about."

Maloney identified himself and they laughed about it. A month later Tinkham and Maloney met in the lobby of a Washington hotel. They conversed and again Tinkham showed no sign of recognizing Maloney.

"I'll bet you $100 you don't know who I am," Maloney challenged.

"Yes I do," said Tinkham. "You are that fool me this time. You are that damned Veteran's case that has been giving me so much trouble."

Conn's Injury To Give Pastor Another Fight

By JACK MAHON

NEW YORK, May 12 — Now that Baby David Phillip Conn has been christened and his grandfather, James L. (Greenfield Jimmy) Smith officially launched by daddy, Billy Conn, another ambitious young heavyweight, Bicycle Bob Pastor of New York looked forward today to a unique role as the first gentleman to get three cracks at World's Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis.

For this is the story of two breaks—one bad, one good. Conn got the bad one when he broke his left hand on his father-in-law's skull in a brawl Sunday night in Pittsburgh. The broken mitt will cost Billy the Kid his long-awaited return chance at Louis' title scheduled for the Yankee stadium here late next month.

Billy's bad fortune was Pastor's good fortune for the Bicycle Kid will shortly be matched for the third time with Louis, and his second chance at the richest crown in pugilism. Every big city and hamlet with a boxing club will come forward with hints, announcements and bids for the big fight in the next few weeks but, barring very unexpected developments, we would like you to know the third Louis-Pastor bout will take place in Soldier's field, Chicago, probably in July.

Promoter Mike Jacobs, who, as promoter, will have a casual interest in the show, would not comment on the matter late last evening but did admit that, "a long time ago the Army asked me to put the next Louis fight on in Chicago."

"You may say that New York, Cleveland and Chicago are under consideration for the next Louis fight," said Miguel.

Conn's face was badly torn by scratch cuts under both eyes and on the bridge of his nose and he had a nasty gash midway up the inside of his right arm. His left hand was encased in a plaster cast and, as he posed for photographers, he told the story of his fight.

"He (Smith) told me before I was married that if I married Mary Louise he was going to get me," said the kid, "and he did."

Billy then went on to explain the background of the brawl which rocked the boxing world. He told how Smith had refused to attend the christening of Baby Conn at St. Bede's R. C. church in Pittsburgh, Sunday afternoon, and how he had not spoken to his father-in-law in more than a year.

"Sunday night I was at my home talking with my friend, Art Rooney," said Billy. "Smith called Rooney and asked him to come over. Art left and a short while later called me and said Smith wanted to talk to me and probably bury the hatchet."

Old Dispute Comes Up
 "I shook hands with him when I arrived and we sat around. Then he said he wanted to see me alone and asked me out to the kitchen. He began talking loud and brought up a lot of old disputes. I told him not to holler that I wasn't deaf."

Billy said Smith then yelled "Aren't you scared of me, young man?"

"I'm not scared of anybody," answered Conn. Then it started.

Conn says Smith threw a punch at him and lunged for him. They started to slug away and Mrs. Conn, other relatives, Rooney and Milton Jaffe, another friend of

THREE GIVEN CHANCE TO BEAT BUCK OUTFIT

CHICAGO, May 12 — Indiana, Illinois and Wisconsin were regarded today as the most likely challengers to Ohio State's bid for the team championship at the Western Conference's 42nd annual track and field meet next Friday and Saturday at Northwestern university.

The Buckeyes will be gunning for their first team title in the outdoor championships. Ohio State will pin its hopes on such stalwarts as Bob Wright, national collegiate hurdles champion; Capt. Ralph Hammond, sprinter; Russ Owen, sophomore quarter miler; John Jones, two-miler; Gene Kiracone and George Hoeflinger in the high jump; Bob Johnson in the discus, and Bob Shaw in the shotput.

Billy's, raced to the scene to try and halt the battle.

Before they could do so both men had landed several punches and were rolling around on the floor. Smith's nails ripped open Billy's handsome face and, in the melee, Billy punched his hand through a window cutting his arm.

"Did you get in any good shots?" a reporter asked Conn.

"I wasn't just standing there," answered Billy. He said he wasn't sure but he thought he had ripped a cut open on Smith's head during the brawl.

When the pair was finally parted, Conn's shirt was ripped from his back, and his wife had been severely shaken up. Billy said she was heart broken over the incident.

The youngster's hand was pronounced broken after x-rays at Pittsburgh's Mercy hospital and Billy said he would be unable to use it for at least four weeks. "Of course the fight's off," he said. "I guess I can forget about getting another chance at the heavyweight title."

The kid said he planned no legal action against Smith. "I'm not a yelper and won't do anything like that," he said. "All I'm worried about now is how the Army will take this. I don't want to make them look bad and hope they'll understand the whole story."

With this the hard-luck Irish kid drove off to catch a ferry to Staten Island, on which Ft. Wadsworth, from which he received his very unhappy furlough, last week end, is located.

Merchants Learn Details Of Federal Price Regulations

40 AT MEETING HELD OUTLINING 'CEILING' PLAN

Copies Of Rules Will Be Made Available For Pickaway Stores

More than 40 Circleville retailers went to Chillicothe Monday evening to obtain information on maximum price regulations on most commodities, effective May 18, and returned home with an excellent picture of the government's regulations. E. L. Mason, business specialist of the consumers' durable goods section of the OPA, addressed merchants from Circleville, Chillicothe, Jackson and numerous other cities and villages of south central Ohio numbering more than 250.

Copies of rules and regulations as set up by the OPA will be available in Circleville within the next few days at the Chamber of Commerce offices and at the Butch Jewelry company, West Main street. The book containing their rules will answer 90 percent of all retailers' problems, Mr. Mason pointed out.

"How am I going to find my ceiling price?" is the question most frequently asked by retailers, Mason said. This ceiling price may be determined, first and most simply by taking the highest price charged for an item sold and delivered in March, Mason pointed out. If a particular item wasn't sold by the merchant in March, he may take the highest price at which a similar commodity of the same quality was sold last month.

Falling to reach a ceiling price by these two methods, the seller may charge the highest price for the item that was charged during March by the most closely competitive seller of the same class.

As a last resort, the seller may make a survey of a competitive area, select a comparable commodity for which a maximum price is established, and divide that price by his own replacement cost for that item. The answer, or percentage, which he gets, he multiplies by his replacement cost, and the resulting figure shall be the maximum price of the commodity being priced.

May 18 Vital
"On and after May 18, every person offering to sell a cost-of-living commodity at retail shall mark the maximum price of such a commodity in a manner plainly visible to, and understandable by, the purchasing public," Mason said. "The maximum price may be marked on the commodity itself or on the shelf, bin, rack or other holder or container on or in which the commodity is kept, or it may be posted at the place in the business establishment where the commodity is offered for sale."

"The maximum price," he added, "shall be posted either 'Ceiling Price &...' or 'Our Ceiling $...'"

On or before June 1 every person offering to sell cost-of-living commodities at retail shall file with the war price and rationing board of the OPA a statement showing his maximum price for each such commodity, together with an appropriate description or identification of it, Mason said.

Although the price control bill sets the ceiling price, it does not freeze prices, Mason said, since there is no restriction on lowering the price below the ceiling. In cases where merchants complain that the maximum price charged for a particular commodity in March is proved to be too small for them to make a reasonable profit, an adjustment may come about where the cost of the item is "rolled back" to the wholesaler and if need be, to the manufacturer, so that profits on that commodity are more equally distributed all along the line.

Cost-of-living commodities include tobacco, drugs, toiletries and sundries, apparel and yard goods, food and household sundries, household furniture, appliances, furnishings, hardware, agricultural supplies, ice, fuel and automotive.

SEARCH NEARLY OVER

Very likely, the final auditions for a girl vocalist for Shep Fields' new orchestra is coming to a head. Fields has been auditioning songstresses for many weeks now. The difficulty in finding a suitable vocalist lies in the fact that the band's instrumental set-up—brassless—, the arrangements and tonal qualities are unusual. The field has been narrowed down to a blonde, brunette and red-head. All three have equally good voices which makes it quite a problem for the bandleader.

SEEING IS NOT BELIEVING

Bandleader Sammy Kaye is still chuckling over a prank played on him by studio workers on the 20th Century-Fox lot the other day. The Swing and Sway music-maker, who's working in Sonja Henie's picture, "Jeeland", went to the studio's projection room to view some "rushes" of the band's work, filmed the day before. He saw his orchestra on the screen all right—but his ears heard Glenn Miller's theme song! Seems that Glenn is also making a picture for the same studio and the pranksters thought it would be fun to dub Miller's music on Kaye's soundtrack!

RADIO BRIEFS

The song with the longest title of the season will be heard for the first time when Dinah Shore introduces it as a feature of Eddie Cantor's "Time to Smile" program Wednesday, May 13, at 9 p. m. It is called "Conchita Marcheta Lolita Pepita Jaunita Lopez" and the lovely young singer predicts that it will challenge the popularity achieved by her two previous hits, "Yes, My Darling Daughter" and "Blues in the Night." The new tune is from a picture, "Priorities of 1942" and was composed by Julie Styne and Herb Magidson.

Killed in Malta

Gordon Murray

Gordon (Scottie) Murray, 22, sergeant-pilot with the Royal Canadian Air Force, was killed in action over Malta, according to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Murray of Brooklyn, N. Y. The flier is credited with shooting down four Germans in the battle which cost him his life.

McCLAIN, MINOR APPEAR BEFORE SCHOOL LEADERS

Two speakers were heard at the regular monthly meeting of Pickaway county high school superintendents held Monday afternoon in the office of the county superintendent.

Dan McClain, local chairman for the salvage of scrap for National Defense, spoke to the educators on importance of clearing farm property of all scrap metal and other articles that can be used in the defense program.

C. L. Minor of the Logan youth center gave the group information on N.Y.A. trade schools which will be passed on to the graduates of the county schools. Business discussed at the meeting included reports of text-book surveys; termination of defense bond sales, May 18; report on report card and annual report forms for the coming term; church and Sunday school survey reports to be handed in May 18; and distribution of eighth grade tests awards and diplomas for 1942 graduates.

Pedrig Hansen, Carl Burger and John Florence were appointed a committee to work with Superintendent George McDowell on the possibility of revising report card forms for next year.

It's usually a safe bet that when Dinah Shore sponsors a song it will get "Hit Parade" recognition.

Funniest retort of the week came from Phil Spitalny, maestro of "Hour of Charm." After the broadcast Sunday night he was approached by a girl who asked for an audition as a singer. Spitalny politely refused her. "I'm sorry," he said, "but right now I have troubles enough of my own."

"One Foot in Heaven," best-seller novel, will be on the networks soon as a nighttime serial with the deal in the consummating stage.

Horace Heidt's Musical Knights heartily seconded the motion this week when the Movie Models, group of lovely film extras, voted them the radio and dance orchestra with whom they'd most like to be marooned—in a ballroom.

HITLER STRIKES FIRST BLOW IN CRUCIAL ACTION

Kerch Peninsula Initial Goal Of Reich Troops In Spring Drive

from the Ukraine, probably will follow almost immediately, it was said. Operations already are developing on a considerable scale on the northwest front south of Leningrad, it was added.

(In connection with the start of a concerted axis drive, another dispatch from Stockholm reported that Benito Mussolini had accepted Hitler's demands that the axis armies in Russia be strengthened with another 100,000 Italian troops.

(A Madrid dispatch to the Daily Mail said that the German general staff had ordered an urgent speed-up of preparations against Russia, while it was reported in Vichy that Hitler hopes to be able to strike at the end of May.)

LONDON, May 12.—Troops assigned to the chemical squads of the Red army are now engaged in making full preparations for gas warfare which they believe the Germans are planning to begin shortly, the Daily Express reported today.

There can be no doubt that if Hitler employs poison gas against Russia not only the Red army but also Britain and the United States will retaliate in kind, the newspaper said.

The Soviet forces were said to have chemical mines which can be exploded from a distance.

On other fronts:

Royal Air Force observers in Malta declared that the German luftwaffe suffered the greatest defeat in its history in the furious aerial warfare over that oft-bombed Mediterranean island during the week end, while Nazi losses in planes destroyed or damaged mounted to 104.

Two Chinese armies were closing a pincers movement against harassed Japanese forces on the Burma-China border near Chafang, while continuing a battle to keep reinforcements from reaching the trapped troops. One of the Chinese detachments was moving eastward from Lashio, preparing to assault the rear of the Jap forces and the other was driving westward across the Salween river in western Yunnan province, pursuing Nipponese units which apparently were effecting a general withdrawal from China.

In northern Australian waters, United Nations forces continued to pursue harried Japanese naval units after bombing two enemy transports in the Solomon islands. The transports raised to 23 the number of Japanese ships sunk or damaged during the last week.

Ceylon Well Armed
A dispatch from the island of Ceylon disclosed that outpost off the southeastern coast of menaced India now is an armed camp, following the arrival of vast amounts of munitions and planes originally intended for Singapore and a general awakening of the populace in the wake of Japanese air raids.

In another Pacific operation outside the Australian area, United States submarines sank another Japanese destroyer and two cargo vessels, the Navy department announced in Washington. Also in the nation's capital, official quarters were reported to be conservatively optimistic over prospects of an agreement with the French high commissioner of Martinique for immobilization of French warships and planes in the Caribbean area.

Remember—it takes two weeks to have them made—so don't wait too long!

BARBER GETS AFTER DEBTS

MONTROSE, Pa.—Barber William Payne is a lenient man but he decided recently there was such a thing as being too lenient. With more than $100 owed him for shaves and haircuts, he posted a list of "People Who Said They Would But Did Not" on the mirror of his Public Avenue shop and has been paid $35 on the past due accounts which range from 50 cents to $9. Barber Bill, let it be said to his and their credit, did not post names of men who had entered their country's armed services.

force," he said, "is confidently awaiting the zero hour backed by its American ally."

"We have no false optimism. The R.A.A.F. realizes that when the blow falls it will need all its strength."

Drakeford said the American and Australian pilots had been blasting the Japanese advanced bases with regularity to reduce their gathering strength and will continue to harass the enemy so that when the storm breaks it will be less violent because of their present efforts.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur disclosed in his communique today that two more Japanese transports had been hit Monday when dauntless American and Australian pilots attacked enemy shipping at Kessa island in the Solomon group.

A heavy raid on De Boyne island, in the northern area of the Louisiana Archipelago, also proved costly to the Japs.

Two hits, or near misses, were scored on a large Japanese tanker, a four-engine seaplane was damaged and buildings and enemy stores smashed by direct hits.

The action by the United Nations forces appeared to be strictly a follow-through operation after conclusion of the great Coral sea naval battle during which the Japanese fleet was routed and forced to retire North.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The German radio which yesterday said the major naval engagement had been resumed after arrival of Japanese reinforcements today quoted a Tokyo dispatch stating that "the battle of the Coral sea is regarded as concluded.")

IS IT PATRIOTIC TO REMODEL BUILDINGS NOW?

—an authoritative statement on a much-debated subject!

DO YOU want to build or remodel now—but at the same time wonder whether you can without interfering with our war program? Then read this statement made by C. F. Palmer, Defense Housing Coordinator. "Remodeling is going to be a national need," says Mr. Palmer. "To save critical materials, we should renovate, repair and expand existing structures instead of building new ones. We should insulate to save fuel and transportation, and build with fire proof non-military materials. There are plenty of these. Their use at this time helps fill the gap in residential and factory space." Keep your property in shape, and help conserve national resources. Bring your remodeling problems to us. We have the materials—and the experience—that can save you time and money, too.
